

Scarlet Tanagers at Free Acres.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Mrs. Gould of the Shakespeare Garden Committee, writing about the unusual scarlet tanager at the Central Park Garden, says that few persons have ever seen these scarlet birds. It will, then, perhaps, interest other bird lovers to know that at Free Acres, N. J., twenty-five miles from New York City, I and some other of our colonists saw no less than eight tanagers together in the space of about half an acre. That was on May 25.

BOLTON HALL.

New York, May 31, 1916.

The New York Times

Published: June 4, 1916

Copyright © The New York Times